Changes to the July 2015 Draft of Chapter 1 “Concepts Common to All Attestation Engagements,” to Accommodate Direct Engagements and Specified-Procedures Engagements

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
Introduction 1.1 This chapter of Statements on Standards for Attestation Engagements (SSAEs or attestation standards) applies to engagements in which a CPA in the practice of public accounting is engaged to issue, or does issue, an examination, review, or agreed-upon procedures report on subject matter or an assertion about subject matter (hereinafter referred to as assertion) that is the responsibility of another party. (Ref: par. 1.A1) 1.2 An assertion based attestation engagement is predicated on the concept that a party other than the practitioner makes an assertion about whether the subject matter is measured or evaluated in accordance with suitable criteria. Chapters 2 “Examination Engagements,” 3, “Review Engagements,” and 4, “Agreed-Upon Procedures Engagements,” require the practitioner to request such an assertion in writing when performing an examination, review, or	Introduction 1.A1 The subject matter of an attestation engagement may take many forms, including the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. Historical or prospective performance or condition, for example, historical or prospective financial information, performance measurements, and backlog data</li> <li>b. Physical characteristics, for example, narrative descriptions or square footage of facilities</li> <li>c. Historical events, for example, the price of a market basket of goods on a certain date</li> <li>d. Analyses, for example, break-even analyses</li> <li>e. Systems and processes, for example, internal control</li> <li>f. Behavior, for example, corporate governance, compliance with laws or regulations, and human resource practices</li> </ul> The subject matter may be as of a point in time or for a period of time. (Ref: par. 1.1)

1.3 A direct attestation engagement is one in which the practitioner measures or evaluates the underlying subject matter against the applicable criteria. In a direct engagement there is no requirement for the practitioner to request a written assertion from the responsible party.

Changes to the July 2015 Draft of Chapter 1 “Concepts Common to All Attestation Engagements,” to Accommodate Direct Engagements and Specified-Procedures Engagements
ASB Meeting October 13-15, 2015

1.41.5 An attestation engagement may be part of a larger engagement, for example, a feasibility study or business acquisition study that also includes an examination of prospective financial information. In such circumstances, the attestation standards apply only to the attestation portion of the engagement.
Relationship to Other Pronouncements 1.51.6 ET sec. 1.310.001, Compliance With Standards Rule (AICPA, Professional Standards), requires members who perform professional services to comply with standards promulgated by bodies designated by the Council of the AICPA.
Relationship of Attestation Standards to Quality Control Standards 1.61.7 Quality control systems, policies, and procedures are the responsibility of the firm in conducting its attestation practice. Under QC section 10, A Firm’s System of Quality Control (AICPA, Professional Standards), the firm has an obligation to establish and maintain a system of quality control to provide it with reasonable assurance that<sup>4</sup>: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. the firm and its personnel comply with professional standards and applicable legal and regulatory requirements and</li> <li>b. reports issued by the firm are appropriate in the circumstances.</li> </ul> (Ref: par. 1.A3-1.A5) 1.71.8 Attestation standards relate to the conduct of individual attestation engagements; quality control standards relate to the conduct of a firm’s attestation practice as a whole. Thus, attestation standards and quality control standards are related, and the quality control policies and procedures that a firm adopts may affect both the conduct of individual attestation engagements and the conduct of a firm’s attestation practice as a whole. However,	Relationship of Attestation Standards to Quality Control Standards 1.A3 The nature and extent of a firm’s quality control policies and procedures depend on factors such as its size, the degree of operating autonomy allowed its personnel and its practice offices, the nature of its practice, its organization, and appropriate cost-benefit considerations. (Ref: par. 1.7) 1.A4 Within the context of the firm’s system of quality control, engagement teams have a responsibility to implement quality control procedures that are applicable to the attestation engagement and provide the firm with relevant information to enable the functioning of that part of the firm’s quality control relating to independence. (Ref: par. 1.7) 1.A5 Engagement teams are entitled to rely on the firm’s system of quality control, unless the engagement partner determines that it is inappropriate to do so based on information provided by the firm or other parties. (Ref: par. 1.7)

deficiencies in or instances of noncompliance with a firm’s quality control policies and procedures do not, in and of themselves, indicate that a particular engagement was not performed in accordance with the attestation standards.
Effective Date 1.81.9 This chapter is effective for attestation reports dated on or after May 1, 2017.
Objectives 1.91.10 In conducting an attestation engagement, the overall objectives of the practitioner are to <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. apply the requirements relevant to the attestation engagement;</li> <li>b. report on the subject matter or assertion, and communicate as required by the applicable chapter of the attestation standards, in accordance with the results of the practitioner’s procedures; and</li> <li>c. implement quality control procedures at the engagement level that provide the practitioner with reasonable assurance that the attestation engagement complies with professional standards and applicable legal and regulatory requirements.</li> </ul>
Definitions 1.101.11 For purposes of the attestation standards, unless indicated to the contrary, the following terms have the meanings attributed as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. Assertion. Any declaration or set of declarations about whether the subject matter is based on or in accordance with the criteria.</li> <li>b. Attestation engagement. An examination, review, or agreed-upon procedures, or specified procedures engagement performed under the attestation standards related to subject matter or an assertion that is the responsibility of another party. The following are the threefour types of attestation engagements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>i. Examination engagement. An attestation engagement in which the practitioner obtains reasonable assurance by obtaining sufficient appropriate evidence about the measurement or evaluation of</li> </ul> </li> </ul>	Definitions 1.A6 The practitioner obtains the same level of assurance in an examination engagement as the practitioner does in a financial statement audit. subject matter against criteria in order to be able to draw reasonable conclusions on which to base the practitioner’s opinion or conclusion(s) about whether the subject matter is in accordance with the criteria or the assertion is fairly stated, in all material respects. (Ref: par. 1.A6)

ii. Review engagement. An attestation engagement in which the practitioner obtains limited assurance by obtaining sufficient appropriate review evidence about the measurement or evaluation of subject matter against criteria in order to express a conclusion about whether any material modification should be made to the subject matter in order for it be in accordance with the criteria, or to the assertion in order for it to be fairly stated, in all material respects. (Ref: par. 1.A7)

iii. Agreed-upon procedures engagement. An attestation engagement in which a practitioner performs specific procedures on subject matter or an assertion and reports the findings without providing an opinion or a conclusion on it. The parties to the engagement (specified party), as defined in paragraph 1.11*aa* agree upon and are responsible for the sufficiency of the procedures for their purposes.

iv. Specified- procedures engagement. A specified-procedures engagement is one in which a practitioner is engaged to issue or does issue a report of findings based on specified procedures applied to the underlying subject matter. Because the engaging party requires that the findings be independently derived, the services of a practitioner are obtained to perform the procedures and report the findings. The engaging party may determine the procedures to be applied by the practitioner, or the practitioner may determine the procedures if requested to do so by the engaging party. Whether the procedures are determined by the engaging party or the practitioner, the engaging party agrees to the procedures. In a specified-procedures engagement, the practitioner does not perform an examination or a review, does not provide an opinion or conclusion and is not required to request a written

c. Attestation risk. In an examination or review engagement, the risk that the practitioner expresses an inappropriate opinion or conclusion, as applicable, when the subject matter or assertion is materially misstated. (Ref: par. 1.A8–1.A14)	1.A8 Attestation risk does not refer to the practitioner’s business risks, such as loss from litigation, adverse publicity, or other events arising in connection with the subject matter or assertion reported on. (Ref: par. 1.11c) 1.A9 In general, attestation risk can be represented by the following components, although not all of these components will necessarily be present or significant for all engagements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. Risks that the practitioner does not directly influence, which consist of <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>i. the susceptibility of the subject matter to a material misstatement before consideration of any related controls (inherent risk) and</li> <li>ii. the risk that a material misstatement that could occur in the subject matter will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis by the appropriate party(ies)’s internal control (control risk)</li> </ul> </li> <li>b. Risk that the practitioner does directly influence, which consists of the risk that the procedures to be performed by the practitioner will not detect a material misstatement (detection risk)</li> </ul> (Ref: par. 1.11c) 1.A10 The degree to which each of these components of attestation risk is relevant to the engagement is affected by the engagement circumstances, in particular <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• the nature of the subject matter or assertion. (For example, the concept of control risk may be more useful when the subject matter or assertion relates to the preparation of information about an entity’s performance than when it relates to information about the existence of a physical condition.)</li> </ul>

- the type of engagement being performed. (For example, in a review engagement, the practitioner may often decide to obtain evidence by means other than tests of controls in which case consideration of control risk may be less relevant than in an examination engagement on the same subject matter or assertion.)

(Ref: par. 1.11c)

1.A11 The consideration of risks is a matter of professional judgment rather than a matter capable of precise measurement. (Ref: par. 1.11c)

1.A12 In an examination engagement, the practitioner reduces attestation risk to an acceptably low level in the circumstances of the engagement as the basis for the practitioner’s opinion. Reducing attestation risk to zero is not contemplated in an examination engagement, and, therefore, reasonable assurance is less than absolute assurance as a result of factors such as the following:

- The use of selective testing
- The inherent limitations of internal control
- The fact that much of the evidence available to the practitioner is persuasive rather than conclusive
- The use of professional judgment in gathering and evaluating evidence and forming conclusions based on that evidence
- In some cases, the characteristics of the subject matter when evaluated or measured against the criteria

(Ref: par. 1.11c)

1.A13 In a review engagement, attestation risk is greater than it is in an examination engagement. Because the practitioner obtains limited assurance in a review engagement, the types of procedures performed are less extensive than they are in an examination engagement and generally are limited to inquiries and analytical procedures. (Ref: par. 1.11c)

Changes to the July 2015 Draft of Chapter 1 “Concepts Common to All Attestation Engagements,” to Accommodate Direct Engagements and Specified-Procedures Engagements
ASB Meeting October 13-15, 2015

	1.A14 Attestation risk is not applicable to an agreed-upon procedures engagement because in such engagements the practitioner performs specific procedures (the design of which is the responsibility of the specified parties) on subject matter or an assertion and reports the findings without providing an opinion or conclusion. (Ref: par. 1.11c)
d. Criteria. The benchmarks used to measure or evaluate the subject matter. (Ref: par. 1.A15)	1.A15 Suitable criteria are required for reasonably consistent measurement or evaluation of subject matter within the context of professional judgment. Without the frame of reference provided by suitable criteria, any conclusion is open to individual interpretation and misunderstanding. The suitability of criteria is context-sensitive; that is, it is determined in the context of the engagement circumstances. Even for the same subject matter there can be different criteria, which will yield a different measurement or evaluation. For example, one responsible party might select the number of customer complaints resolved to the acknowledged satisfaction of the customer for the subject matter of customer satisfaction; another responsible party might select the number of repeat purchases in the three months following the initial purchase. The suitability of criteria is not affected by the level of assurance; that is, if criteria are unsuitable for an examination engagement, they are also unsuitable for a review engagement, and vice versa. (Ref: par. 1.11ed)
e. Documentation completion date. The date on which the practitioner has assembled for retention a complete and final set of documentation in the engagement file.
f. Engagement circumstances. The broad context defining the particular engagement, which includes the terms of the engagement; whether it is an examination, review, or agreed-upon procedures, or specified procedures engagement; the characteristics of the subject matter; the criteria; the information needs of the intended users; relevant characteristics of the responsible party and, if different, the engaging party and their environment; and other matters, for example, events, transactions, conditions and practices, and relevant laws and regulations, that may have a significant effect on the engagement. g. Engagement documentation The record of procedures performed, relevant evidence obtained, and, in an examination or review engagement, conclusions reached by the practitioner, or in an agreed-

upon procedures engagement, findings of the practitioner. (Terms such as working papers or workpapers are also sometimes used). h. Engagement partner. The partner or other person in the firm who is responsible for the attestation engagement and its performance and for the attestation report that is issued on behalf of the firm and who, when required, has the appropriate authority from a professional, legal, or regulatory body. Engagement partner, partner, and firm refer to their governmental equivalents when relevant. i. Engagement team. All partners and staff performing the engagement and any individuals engaged by the firm or a network firm who perform attestation procedures on the engagement. This excludes a practitioner’s external specialist and engagement quality control reviewer engaged by the firm or a network firm. The term engagement team also excludes individuals within the client’s internal audit function who provide direct assistance.
j. Engaging party. The party(ies) that engages the practitioner to perform the attestation engagement. (Ref: par. 1.A16)	1.A16 The engaging party, depending on the circumstances, may be management or those charged with governance of the responsible party, a legislature, the intended users, or a different third party. (Ref: par. 1.11j)
k. Evidence. Information used by the practitioner in arriving at the opinion, conclusion, or findings on which the practitioner’s attestation report is based. l. Firm. A form of organization permitted by law or regulation whose characteristics conform to resolutions of the Council of the AICPA and that is engaged in the practice of public accounting. m. Fraud. An intentional act involving the use of deception that results in a misstatement in the subject matter or the assertion. n. General use. Use of reports that are not restricted to specified parties. o. Internal audit function. A function of an entity that performs assurance and consulting activities designed to evaluate and improve the effectiveness of the entity’s governance, risk management, and internal control processes.

- p.* Misstatement. A difference between the measurement or evaluation of the subject matter by the responsible party and the proper measurement or evaluation of the subject matter based on the criteria. Misstatements can be intentional or unintentional, qualitative or quantitative, and include omissions. In certain engagements, a misstatement may be referred to as a deviation, exception, or instance of noncompliance.
- q.* Network firm. A firm or other entity that belongs to a network, as defined in ET section 0.400, Definitions, (AICPA, Professional Standards).
- r.* Noncompliance with laws or regulations. Acts of omission or commission by the entity, either intentional or unintentional that are contrary to the prevailing laws and regulations. Such acts include transactions entered into by, or in the name of, the entity or on its behalf by those charged with governance, management, or employees. Noncompliance does not include personal misconduct (unrelated to the subject matter) by those charged with governance, management, or employees of the entity.
- s.* Other practitioner. An independent practitioner who is not a member of the engagement team who performs work on information that will be used as evidence by the practitioner performing the attestation engagement. An other practitioner may be part of the practitioner’s firm or another firm.
- t.* Practitioner. The person or persons conducting the attestation engagement, usually the engagement partner or other members of the engagement team, or, as applicable, the firm. When a chapter of the attestation standards expressly intends that a requirement or responsibility be fulfilled by the engagement partner, the term engagement partner, rather than practitioner is used. Engagement partner and firm are to be read as referring to their governmental equivalents when relevant.
- u.* Practitioner’s specialist. An individual or organization possessing

A practitioner’s specialist may be either a practitioner’s internal specialist (who is a partner or staff, including temporary staff, of the practitioner’s firm or a network firm) or a practitioner’s external specialist. Partner and firm refer to their governmental equivalents when relevant. v. Professional judgment. The application of relevant training, knowledge, and experience, within the context provided by attestation and ethical standards, in making informed decisions about the courses of action that are appropriate in the circumstances of the attestation engagement. w. Professional skepticism. An attitude that includes a questioning mind, being alert to conditions that may indicate possible misstatement due to fraud or error, and a critical assessment of evidence. x. Reasonable assurance. A high but not absolute level of assurance. y. Report release date. The date on which the practitioner grants the engaging party permission to use the report. z. Responsible party. The party(ies) responsible for the subject matter. If the nature of the subject matter is such that no such party exists, a party who has a reasonable basis for making a written representation or assertion about the subject matter may be deemed to be the responsible party. aa. Specified party. The intended user(s) to whom use of the practitioner’s written report is limited. bb. Subject matter. The phenomenon that is measured or evaluated by applying criteria.
1.H1.12 1.H1.12 For the purposes of the attestation standards, references to appropriate party(ies) should be read hereafter as the responsible party or the engaging party, as appropriate. (Ref: par. 1.16) 1.A23 The practitioner is required by paragraph 1.16 to understand the application and other explanatory material. How the practitioner applies the guidance in the engagement depends on the exercise of professional judgment in the circumstances consistent with the objective of the chapter. The words may, might, and could are used to describe these actions and procedures. (Ref: par. 1.16) 1.A24 A chapter of the attestation standards may include, in a separate section under the heading “Definition(s),” a description of the meanings attributed to certain terms for purposes of the chapter. These are provided to assist in the consistent application and interpretation of the chapter, and they are not intended to override definitions that may be established for other purposes, whether in law, regulation, or otherwise. Unless otherwise indicated, those terms will carry the same meanings in all chapters. (Ref: par. 1.16) 1.A25 Appendixes form part of the application and other explanatory material. The purpose and intended use of an appendix are explained in the body of the related chapter of the attestation standards or within the title and introduction of the appendix itself. (Ref: par. 1.16)
Complying With Relevant Requirements 1.161.17 Subject to paragraph 1.21, the practitioner should comply with each requirement of the attestation standards that is relevant to the engagement being performed, including any relevant subject-matter specific chapters, unless in the circumstances of the engagement, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. the entire chapter is not relevant; or</li> <li>b. the requirement is not relevant because it is conditional and the condition does not exist.</li> </ul>	Complying With Relevant Requirements

Attestation Report Prescribed by Law or Regulation 1.181.19 If the practitioner is required by law or regulation to use a specific layout, form, or wording of the practitioner’s report and the prescribed form of report is not acceptable or would cause a practitioner to make a statement that the practitioner has no basis to make, the practitioner should reword the prescribed form of report or attach an appropriately worded separate report. (Ref: par. 1.A27)	Attestation Report Prescribed by Law or Regulation 1.A27 Some report forms can be made acceptable by inserting additional wording to include the elements required by chapters 2, 3, and 4.<sup>5, 6, and 7</sup> Some report forms required by law or regulation can be made acceptable only by complete revision because the prescribed language of the report calls for statements by the practitioner that are not consistent with the practitioner’s function or responsibility, for example, a report form that requests the practitioner to “certify” the subject matter. (Ref: par. 1.19)
Defining Professional Requirements in the Attestation Standards 1.191.20 The attestation standards use the following two categories of professional requirements, identified by specific terms, to describe the degree of responsibility it imposes on practitioners: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Unconditional requirements. The practitioner must comply with an unconditional requirement in all cases in which such requirement is relevant. The attestation standards use the word must to indicate an unconditional requirement.</li> <li>• Presumptively mandatory requirements. The practitioner must comply with a presumptively mandatory requirement in all cases in which such a requirement is relevant except in rare circumstances discussed in paragraph 1.21. The attestation standards use the word should to indicate a presumptively mandatory requirement.</li> </ul>

The need for the practitioner to depart from a relevant presumptively mandatory requirement is expected to arise only when the requirement is for a specific procedure to be performed and, in the specific circumstances of the engagement, that procedure would be ineffective in achieving the intent of the requirement. (Ref: par. 1.A28)
Interpretive Publications 1.21.22 The practitioner should consider applicable interpretive publications in planning and performing the attestation engagement. (Ref: par. 1.A29)	Interpretive Publications 1.A29 Interpretive publications are not attestation standards. Interpretive publications are recommendations on the application of the attestation standards in specific circumstances, including engagements for entities in specialized industries. An interpretive publication is issued under the authority of the relevant senior technical committee after all members of the committee have been provided an opportunity to consider and comment on whether the proposed interpretive publication is consistent with the attestation standards. Examples of interpretive publications are interpretations of the attestation standards, exhibits to the attestation standards, attestation guidance included in AICPA Guides and attestation Statements of Position (SOPs). Interpretations of the attestation standards and exhibits are included within the chapters of the attestation standards. AICPA Guides and attestation SOPs are listed in Appendix A, “AICPA Guides and Statements of Position,” of the attestation standards. (Ref: par. 1.22)
Other Attestation Publications 1.22.23 In applying the attestation guidance included in an other attestation publication, the practitioner should, exercising professional judgment, assess the relevance and appropriateness of such guidance to the circumstances of the attestation engagement. (Ref: par. 1.A30–1.A32)	Other Attestation Publications 1.A30 Other attestation publications are publications other than interpretive publications. These include AICPA attestation publications not defined as interpretive publications; attestation articles in the Journal of Accountancy and other professional journals; continuing professional education programs and other instruction materials, textbooks, guidebooks, attestation programs and checklists; and other attestation publications from state CPA societies, other organizations, and individuals. Other attestation publications have no authoritative status; however, they may help the practitioner understand and apply the attestation standards. The practitioner is not expected to be aware of the full body of other attestation publications. (Ref: par. 1.23) 1.A31 Although the practitioner determines the relevance of these publications in accordance with paragraph 1.23, the practitioner may presume that other attestation publications published by the AICPA that have been

These other attestation publications are listed in Appendix B “Other Attestation Publications,” of the attestation standards. (Ref: par. 1.23) 1.A32 In determining whether an other attestation publication that has not been reviewed by the AICPA Audit and Attest Standards staff is appropriate to the circumstances of the attestation engagement, the practitioner may wish to consider the degree to which the publication is recognized as being helpful in understanding and applying the attestation standards and the degree to which the issuer or author is recognized as an authority in attestation matters. (Ref: par. 1.23)
Acceptance and Continuance 1.231.24 The engagement partner should be satisfied that appropriate procedures regarding the acceptance and continuance of client relationships and attestation engagements have been followed and should determine that conclusions reached in this regard are appropriate.
Preconditions for an Attestation Engagement 1.241.25 The practitioner must be independent when performing an attestation engagement in accordance with the attestation standards unless the practitioner is required by law or regulation to accept the engagement and report on the subject matter or assertion. (Ref: par. 1.A33)	Preconditions for an Attestation Engagement 1.A33 ET section 1.297, Independence Standards for Engagements Performed in Accordance With Statements on Standards for Attestation Engagements, (AICPA, Professional Standards), establishes special requirements for independence for services provided under the attestation standards. In addition, ET section 1.210, Conceptual Framework Approach (AICPA, Professional Standards), discusses threats to independence not specifically detailed elsewhere, for example, when the practitioner has an interest in the subject matter. (Ref: par. 1.25)
1.251.26 In order to establish that the preconditions for an attestation engagement are present, the practitioner should determine both of the following: a. The responsible party is a party other than the practitioner and takes responsibility for the subject matter. (Ref: par. 1.A34)	1.A34 The responsible party may acknowledge its responsibility for the subject matter or for the written assertion as it relates to the objective of the engagement in a number of ways, for example, in an engagement letter, a representation letter, or the presentation of the subject matter, including the notes thereto, or the written assertion. Examples of other evidence of the responsible party’s responsibility for the subject matter include reference to legislation, a regulation, or a contract. (Ref: par. 1.26a)
b. The engagement exhibits all of the following characteristics: i. The subject matter is appropriate. (Ref: par. 1.A35–1.A40)	1.A35 An element of the appropriateness of subject matter is the existence of a reasonable basis for measuring or evaluating the subject matter. The responsible party in an attestation engagement is responsible for having a

reasonable basis for measuring or evaluating the subject matter. What constitutes a reasonable basis will depend on the nature of the subject matter and other engagement circumstances. In some cases, a formal process with extensive internal controls may be needed to provide the responsible party with a reasonable basis for concluding that the measurement or evaluation of the subject matter is free from material misstatement. The fact that the practitioner will report on the subject matter or assertion is not a substitute for the responsible party’s own processes to have a reasonable basis for measuring or evaluating the subject matter or assertion. (Ref: par. 1.26b[i])

1.A36 An appropriate subject matter

- a. is identifiable and capable of consistent measurement or evaluation against the criteria and
- b. can be subjected to procedures for obtaining sufficient appropriate evidence to support an opinion, conclusion, or findings, as appropriate.

(Ref: par. 1.26b[i])

1.A37 If the subject matter is not appropriate for an examination engagement, it also is not appropriate for a review engagement. (Ref: par. 1.26b[i])

1.A38 Different subject matters have different characteristics, including the degree to which information about them is qualitative versus quantitative, objective versus subjective, historical versus prospective, and relates to a point in time or covers a period. Such characteristics affect the following:

- a. Precision with which the subject matter can be measured or evaluated against criteria
- b. The persuasiveness of available evidence

(Ref: par. 1.26b[i])

1.A39 Identifying such characteristics and considering their effects assists the practitioner when assessing the appropriateness of the subject matter and also in determining the content of the practitioner’s report. (Ref: par. 1.26b[i])

1.A40 In some cases, the attestation engagement may relate to only one part

	of a broader subject matter. For example, the practitioner may be engaged to examine one aspect of an entity’s contribution to sustainable development, such as the programs run by the entity that have positive environmental outcomes, and may be aware that the practitioner has not been engaged to examine more significant programs with less favorable outcomes. In such cases, in determining whether the engagement exhibits the characteristic of having an appropriate subject matter, it may be appropriate for the practitioner to consider whether information about the aspect on which the practitioner is asked to examine is likely to meet the information needs of intended users. (Ref: par. 1.26b[i])
ii. The criteria to be applied in the preparation and evaluation of the subject matter are suitable and will be available to the intended users. 1.A41–1.A51)	1.A41 Suitable criteria exhibit all of the following characteristics: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Relevance. Criteria are relevant to the subject matter.</li> <li>• Objectivity. Criteria are free from bias.</li> <li>• Measurability. Criteria permit reasonably consistent measurements, qualitative or quantitative, of subject matter.</li> <li>• Completeness. Criteria are complete when subject matter prepared in accordance with them does not omit relevant factors that could reasonably be expected to affect decisions of the intended users made on the basis of that subject matter.</li> </ul> The relative importance of each characteristic to a particular engagement is a matter of professional judgment. (Ref: par. 1.26b[ii]) 1.A42 Criteria can be developed in a variety of ways, for example, they may be <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. embodied in laws or regulations.</li> <li>b. issued by authorized or recognized bodies of experts that follow a transparent due process.</li> <li>c. developed collectively by a group that does not follow a transparent due process.</li> <li>d. published in scholarly journals or books.</li> </ul>

- e.* developed for sale on a proprietary basis.
- f.* specifically designed for the purpose of measuring, evaluating, or disclosing the subject matter or assertion in the particular circumstances of the engagement.

How criteria are developed may affect the work that the practitioner carries out to assess their suitability.

(Ref: par. 1.26*b*[ii])

1.A43 Criteria that are established or developed by groups composed of experts that follow due process procedures, including exposure of the proposed criteria for public comment, are ordinarily considered suitable. Criteria promulgated by a body designated by the Council of the AICPA under the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct are, by definition, considered to be suitable. (Ref: par. 1.26*b*[ii])

1.A44 In some cases, laws or regulations prescribe the criteria to be used for the engagement. In the absence of indications to the contrary, such criteria are presumed to be suitable. (Ref: par. 1.26*b*[ii])

1.A45 Criteria may be established or developed by the engaging party, the responsible party, industry associations, or other groups that do not follow due process procedures or do not as clearly represent the public interest. The practitioner’s determination of whether such criteria are suitable is based on the characteristics described in paragraph 1.A41). (Ref: par. 1.26*b*[ii])

1.A46 Regardless of who establishes or develops the criteria, the responsible party or the engaging party is responsible for selecting the criteria, and the engaging party is responsible for determining that such criteria are appropriate for its purposes. (Ref: par. 1.26*b*[ii])

1.A47 Some criteria may be suitable for only a limited number of parties who either participated in their establishment or can be presumed to have an adequate understanding of the criteria. For example, criteria set forth in a lease agreement for override payments may be suitable only for reporting to the parties to the agreement because of the likelihood that such criteria would be

	misunderstood or misinterpreted by parties other than those who have specifically agreed to the criteria. Such criteria can be agreed upon directly by the parties or through a designated representative. (Ref: par. 1.26b[ii]) 1.A48 Even when established criteria exist for a subject matter, specific users may agree to other criteria for their specific purposes. For example, various frameworks can be used as established criteria for evaluating the effectiveness of internal control. Specific users may, however, develop a more detailed set of criteria that meet their specific information needs. (Ref: par. 1.26b[ii]) 1.A49 If criteria are specifically designed for the purpose of measuring, evaluating, or disclosing the subject matter or assertion in the particular circumstances of the engagement, they are not suitable if they result in subject matter, an assertion, or a report that is misleading to the intended users. It is desirable for the intended users or the engaging party to acknowledge that specifically developed criteria are suitable for the intended users’ purposes. The absence of such an acknowledgement may affect what is to be done to assess the suitability of the -criteria and the information provided about the criteria in the practitioner’s report. (Ref: par. 1.26b[iii]) 1.A50 Criteria need to be available to the intended users to allow them to understand how the subject matter has been measured or evaluated. Criteria are made available to the intended users in one or more of the following ways: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>a. Publicly</li><li>b. Through inclusion in a clear manner in the presentation of the subject matter</li><li>c. Through inclusion in a clear manner in the practitioner’s report</li><li>d. By general understanding, for example, the criterion for measuring time in hours and minutes</li><li>e. Available only to specified parties, for example, terms of a contract or criteria issued by an industry association that are available only to those in the industry (Ref: par. 1.26b[iii])</li></ul> 1.A51 When criteria are available only to specified parties, chapters 2 and 3

A change may not be considered reasonable if it appears that the change relates to information that is incorrect, incomplete, or otherwise unsatisfactory. An example of such a circumstance is a request to change the engagement from an examination to a review to avoid a modified opinion or a disclaimer of opinion in a situation in

The report should not include reference to (a) the original engagement, (b) any procedures that may have been performed, or (c) scope limitations that resulted in the changed engagement.	which the practitioner is unable to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence regarding the subject matter. ASB Meeting October 13-15, 2015

documentation for a period of time sufficient to meet the needs of the practitioner and to satisfy any applicable legal or regulatory requirements for records retention.
1.391.40 Because engagement documentation often contains confidential information, the practitioner should adopt reasonable procedures to maintain the confidentiality of that information.
1.401.41 The practitioner also should adopt reasonable procedures to prevent unauthorized access to engagement documentation.
1.411.42 If, in rare circumstances, the practitioner judges it necessary to depart from a relevant presumptively mandatory requirement, the practitioner should document the justification for the departure and how the alternative procedures performed in the circumstances were sufficient to achieve the intent of that requirement. (See paragraph 1.21.)
Engagement Quality Control Review 1.421.43 For those engagements, if any, for which the firm has determined that an engagement quality control review is required, <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. the engagement partner should take responsibility for discussing with the engagement quality control reviewer significant findings or issues arising during the engagement, including those identified during the engagement quality control review, and not release the attestation report until completion of the engagement quality control review and</li> <li>b. the engagement quality control reviewer should perform an objective evaluation of the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the conclusions reached in formulating the practitioner’s report. This evaluation should include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>i. Discussion of significant findings or issues with the engagement partner</li> <li>ii. Reading the written subject matter or assertion and the proposed practitioner’s report</li> <li>iii. Reading selected engagement documentation relating to the significant judgments the engagement team made and the related conclusions it reached</li> </ul> </li> </ul>	Engagement Quality Control Review 1.A64 Other matters that may be considered in an engagement quality control review include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. The engagement team’s evaluation of the firm’s independence in relation to the engagement</li> <li>b. Whether appropriate consultation has taken place on matters involving differences of opinion or other difficult or contentious matters and the conclusions arising from those consultations</li> <li>c. Whether engagement documentation selected for review reflects the work performed in relation to the significant judgments and supports the conclusions reached (Ref: par. 1.43)</li> </ul>

iv. Evaluation of the conclusions reached in formulating the practitioner’s report and consideration of whether the proposed practitioner’s report is appropriate (Ref: par. 1.A64)
Professional Skepticism and Professional Judgment Professional Skepticism 1.431.44 The practitioner should plan and perform an attestation engagement with professional skepticism. (Ref: par. 1.A65–1.A67) 1.441.45 Unless the practitioner has reason to believe the contrary, the practitioner may accept records and documents as genuine. If conditions identified during the attestation engagement cause the practitioner to believe that a document may not be authentic or that terms in a document have been modified but not disclosed to the practitioner, the practitioner should investigate further.	Professional Skepticism and Professional Judgment Professional Skepticism 1.A65 Professional skepticism includes being alert to matters such as the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Evidence that contradicts other evidence obtained</li> <li>• Information that brings into question the reliability of documents and responses to inquiries to be used as evidence</li> <li>• Circumstances that may indicate fraud</li> <li>• Circumstances that suggest the need for procedures in addition to those required by relevant chapters of the attestation standards</li> </ul> (Ref: par. 1.44) 1.A66 Professional skepticism is necessary to the critical assessment of evidence. This includes questioning contradictory evidence and the reliability of documents and responses to inquiries and other information obtained from the appropriate party. It also includes consideration of the sufficiency and appropriateness of evidence obtained in the light of the circumstances. (Ref: par. 1.44) 1.A67 The practitioner neither assumes that the appropriate party is dishonest nor assumes unquestioned honesty. The practitioner cannot be expected to disregard past experience of the honesty and integrity of those who provide evidence. Nevertheless, a belief that those who provide evidence are honest and have integrity does not relieve the practitioner of the need to maintain professional skepticism or allow the practitioner to be satisfied with less than sufficient appropriate evidence for the service being provided. (Ref: par. 1.44)
Professional Judgment 1.451.46 The practitioner should exercise professional judgment in planning and performing an attestation engagement. (Ref: par. 1.A68–1.A73)	Professional Judgment 1.A68 Professional judgment is essential to the proper conduct of an attestation engagement. This is because interpretation of relevant ethical requirements and relevant chapters and the informed decisions required throughout the engagement cannot be made without the application of relevant knowledge and experience to the facts and circumstances. (Ref: par. 1.46)

1.A69 For examination and review engagements, professional judgment is necessary regarding decisions about the following matters:

- Materiality and attestation risk
- The nature, timing, and extent of procedures used to meet the requirements of relevant chapters and gather evidence
- Evaluating whether sufficient appropriate evidence for the service being provided has been obtained and whether more needs to be done to achieve the objectives of this chapter; chapter 2 or chapter 3; and any relevant subject-matter specific chapters and thereby the overall objectives of the practitioner
- The evaluation of the responsible party’s judgments in applying the criteria
- The drawing of conclusions based on the evidence obtained, for example, assessing the reasonableness of the evaluation or measurement of subject matter or an assertion

(Ref: par. 1.46)

1.A70 The distinguishing feature of professional judgment expected of a practitioner is that such judgment is exercised based on competencies necessary to achieve reasonable judgments developed by the practitioner through relevant training, knowledge, and experience.(Ref: par. 1.46)

1.A71 The exercise of professional judgment in any particular case is based on the facts and circumstances that are known by the practitioner. Consultation on difficult or contentious matters during the course of the engagement, both within the engagement team and between the engagement team and others at the appropriate level within or outside the firm, assist the practitioner in making informed and reasonable judgments. (Ref: par. 1.46)

1.A72 Professional judgment can be evaluated based on whether the judgment reached reflects a competent application of attestation standards and measurement or evaluation principles and is appropriate in light of, and consistent with, the facts and circumstances that were known to the practitioner up to the date of the practitioner’s report. (Ref: par. 1.46)

1.A73 The requirement to exercise professional judgment applies throughout the engagement. Professional judgment also needs to be appropriately documented as required by chapters 2 and 3.<sup>10,11</sup> (Ref: par. 1.46)
