

Agenda Item 1A

Revisions to bring “common concepts” from AT-C section 105 to the proposed standard are highlighted.

“Selected Procedures Engagements”

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
Introduction .1 This proposed standard applies to engagements in which a CPA in the practice of public accounting is engaged to issue, or does issue, a report of findings based on selected procedures applied to subject matter that is the responsibility of another party. Individual users of the selected procedures report make their own determination as to how the report is to be used based on the procedures performed and the related findings and whether the procedures performed were sufficient for their purposes. The selected procedures may be developed by the practitioner, the engaging party, another party, or a combination of these parties, none of whom are required to take responsibility for the sufficiency of those procedures for any purpose; however any or all may take such responsibility. In a selected procedures engagement, the practitioner does not perform an examination or a review and does not provide an opinion or conclusion. The selected procedures report may be intended for a broad range of users and is not required to be restricted as to use. (Ref: par. .A1-.A2) .2 While a selected procedures engagement has many features in common with an agreed-upon procedures engagement,¹	Introduction (Ref: .1 - .2) .A1 The subject matter of a selected procedures engagement may take many forms, including the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. Historical or prospective performance or condition, for example, historical or prospective financial information, performance measurements, and backlog data b. Physical characteristics, for example, narrative descriptions or square footage of facilities

fundamental differences between a selected procedures engagement and an agreed-upon procedures engagement include (Ref: par. .A3) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • In an agreed-upon procedures engagement, the specified party(ies) determine(s) the procedures they believe to be appropriate to be applied by the practitioner. However, in a selected procedures engagement, the practitioner may determine such procedures. • In a selected procedures engagement, no party is required to take responsibility for the sufficiency of the procedures performed for any purpose. However the practitioner, the engaging party, or another party may take such responsibility. • In a selected procedures engagement, the practitioner's report is not required to be restricted. • In a selected procedures engagement, the practitioner is not required to request or obtain an assertion from any party. ^{fn1} AT-C section 215, Agreed-Upon Procedures Engagements provides performance and reporting requirements and application guidance for an agreed-upon procedures engagement. .3 This section does not apply to litigation services that involve pending or potential legal or regulatory proceedings before a trier of fact when the practitioner has not been engaged to issue, and does not issue, a practitioner's selected procedures report on subject matter that is the responsibility of another party and any of the following circumstances exist: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. The service comprises being an expert witness. b. The service comprises being a trier of fact or acting on behalf of one. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> c. Historical events, for example, the price of a market basket of goods on a certain date d. Analyses, for example, break-even analyses e. Systems and processes, for example, internal control f. Behavior, for example, corporate governance, compliance with laws and regulations, and human resource practices The subject matter may be as of a point in time or for a period of time. .A2 The procedures to be performed may be as limited or as extensive as appropriate to meet the purpose of the engagement. .A3 Nothing in this standard is intended to preclude a practitioner from performing a selected procedures engagement and an agreed-upon procedures engagement on the same subject matter.

c. The practitioner's work under the rules of the proceedings is subject to detailed analysis and challenge by each party to the dispute. d. The practitioner is engaged by an attorney to do work that will be protected by the attorney's work product or attorney-client privilege, and such work is not intended to be used for other purposes. .4 Because performance audits performed pursuant to Government Auditing Standards do not require a practitioner's selected procedures report as described in this section, this section does not apply to performance audits unless the practitioner engaged to conduct a performance audit is also engaged to conduct a selected procedures engagement or issues such a selected procedures report. Scope of This Standard .5 When a practitioner performs services pursuant to an engagement to apply selected procedures to subject matter as part of or in addition to another form of service, this proposed standard applies only to those services described herein; other professional standards would apply to the other services. (Ref: par. .A4)	Scope of This Standard (Ref: par. .5 and .9) .A4 Another form of service may include an audit, review, compilation, or preparation of financial statements; an examination, review, or agreed-upon procedures engagement performed pursuant to the attestation standards; or a nonattest service other than financial statement preparation such as engagements performed in accordance with Statement on Standards for Consulting Services. A practitioner's selected procedures report may be combined with a practitioner's report on such other services, provided the types of services can be clearly distinguished and the applicable standards for each service are followed.
Objectives .6 In conducting a selected procedures engagement, the objectives of the practitioner are to <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. apply procedures to the subject matter; and b. issue a written practitioner's report that describes the procedures applied and the practitioner's findings.

The date on which the practitioner has assembled for retention a complete and final set of documentation in the engagement file. Engagement circumstances. The broad context defining the particular engagement, which includes the terms of the engagement; the characteristics of the subject matter; the criteria; the information needs of the intended users; relevant characteristics of the entity and, if different, the engaging party and their environment; and other matters, for example, events, transactions, conditions and practices, and relevant laws and regulations, that may have a significant effect on the engagement. Engagement documentation. The record of procedures performed, relevant evidence obtained, and findings of the practitioner. (Terms such as working papers or workpapers are also sometimes used). Engagement partner. The partner or other person in the firm who is responsible for the selected procedures engagement and its performance and for the practitioner's report that is issued on behalf of the firm and who, when required, has the appropriate authority from a professional, legal, or regulatory body. Engagement partner, partner, and firm refer to their governmental equivalents when relevant. Engagement team. All partners and staff performing the engagement and any individuals engaged by the firm or a network firm who perform procedures on the engagement. This excludes a	.A5 Suitable criteria are required for reasonably consistent measurement or evaluation of subject matter within the context of professional judgment. Without the frame of reference provided by suitable criteria, any conclusion is open to individual interpretation and misunderstanding. The suitability of criteria is context-sensitive, that is, it is determined in the context of the engagement circumstances. Even for the same subject matter, there can be different criteria, which will yield a different measurement or evaluation. For example, one party might select the number of customer complaints resolved to the acknowledged satisfaction of the customer for the subject matter of customer satisfaction; another party might select the number of repeat purchases in the three months following the initial purchase.

practitioner's external specialist and engagement quality control reviewer engaged by the firm or a network firm. The term engagement team also excludes individuals within the client's internal audit function who provide direct assistance. Engaging party. The party(ies) that engages the practitioner to perform the selected procedures engagement. Evidence. Information used by the practitioner in arriving at the findings on which the practitioner's report is based. Firm. A form of organization permitted by law or regulation whose characteristics conform to resolutions of the Council of the AICPA and that is engaged in the practice of public accounting. Fraud. An intentional act involving the use of deception that results in a misstatement in the subject matter. General use. Use of a practitioner's report that is not restricted to specified parties. Internal audit function. A function of an entity that performs assurance and consulting activities designed to evaluate and improve the effectiveness of the entity's governance, risk management, and internal control processes. Interpretive publications. Interpretations of this section; exhibits to this section; guidance on selected procedures engagements included in AICPA Audit and Accounting Guides; and AICPA Statements of Position, to the extent that those statements are applicable to selected procedures engagements. Network firm. Such acts include transactions entered into by, or in the name of, the entity or on its behalf by those charged with governance, management, or employees. Noncompliance does not include personal misconduct (unrelated to the subject matter) by those charged with governance, management, or employees of the entity. Other practitioner. An independent practitioner who is not a member of the engagement team who performs work on information that will be used as evidence by the practitioner performing the selected procedures engagement. An other practitioner may be part of the practitioner's firm, a network firm, or another firm. Other selected procedures publications. Publications other than interpretive publications. These include AICPA selected procedures publications not defined as interpretive publications; articles addressing selected procedures engagements in the Journal of Accountancy and other professional journals; continuing professional education programs and other instruction materials, textbooks, guide books, programs for selected procedures engagements, and checklists; and other publications addressing selected procedures engagements from state CPA societies, other organizations, and individuals. Practitioner. The person or persons conducting the engagement, usually the engagement partner or other members of the engagement team, or, as applicable, the firm. When this section expressly intends that a requirement or responsibility be fulfilled by the engagement partner, the term engagement partner, rather

An individual or organization possessing expertise in a field other than accounting or attestation, whose work in that field is used by the practitioner to assist the practitioner in obtaining evidence for the service being provided. A practitioner's specialist may be either a practitioner's internal specialist (who is a partner or staff, including temporary staff, of the practitioner's firm or a network firm) or a practitioner's external specialist. Partner and firm refer to their governmental equivalents when relevant. Professional judgment. The application of relevant training, knowledge, and experience, within the context provided by this section and ethical standards in making informed decisions about the courses of action that are appropriate in the circumstances of the selected procedures engagement. Professional skepticism. The date on which the practitioner grants the engaging party permission to use the practitioner's report. Selected procedures engagement. An attestation engagement in which a practitioner performs procedures on subject matter and reports the findings without providing an opinion or a conclusion on it. The selected procedures may be developed by the practitioner, the engaging party, another party, or a combination of these parties none of which are required to take responsibility

Requirements
Compliance With this Section	Compliance With this Section (Ref: par. .9)
.7 The "Compliance With Standards Rule" (ET sec. 1.310.001) of the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct requires members who perform professional services to comply with standards promulgated by bodies designated by the Council of the AICPA.
.8 The practitioner should not represent compliance with this section unless the practitioner has complied with the requirements of this section.
.9 Reports issued by a practitioner in connection with services performed under other professional standards should be written to be clearly distinguishable from and not confused with reports issued under this section. (Ref: par. .A4 and .A6)	.A6 A practitioner's report that merely excludes the phrase "was conducted in accordance with attestation standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants" but is otherwise similar to a practitioner's selected procedures report is an example of a practitioner's report that is not clearly distinguishable from, and could be confused with, a report issued under this section.
Text of This Section	Text of This Section (Ref: par. .10)
.10 The practitioner should have an understanding of the entire text of this section that is relevant to the engagement being performed, including its application and other explanatory material, to understand its objectives and apply its requirements properly. (Ref: par. .A7–.A11)	.A7 This section contains the objectives of the practitioner and requirements designed to enable the practitioner to meet those objectives. In addition, it contains related guidance in the form of application and other explanatory material, introductory material that provides context relevant to a proper understanding of the section, and definitions.

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
	.A8 Introductory material includes such matters as an explanation of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The purpose and scope of the section, including how the section relates to other AT-C sections • The subject matter of the AT-C section • The respective responsibilities of the practitioner and others regarding the subject matter of the section • The context in which the AT-C section is set .A9 The application and other explanatory material provides further explanation of the requirements of this section and guidance for carrying them out. In particular, it may <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. explain more precisely what a requirement means or is intended to cover and b. include examples of procedures that may be appropriate in the circumstances. Although such guidance does not, in itself, impose a requirement, it may explain the proper application of the requirements of the section. The application and other explanatory material may also provide background information on matters addressed in this section. They do not, however, limit or reduce the responsibility of the practitioner to apply and comply with the requirements in this section. .A10 The practitioner is required by paragraph .10 to understand the application and other explanatory material. How the practitioner applies the guidance in the engagement depends on the exercise of professional

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
	judgment in the circumstances consistent with the objective of the section. The words may, might, and could are used to describe these actions and procedures. .A11 This section includes, in a separate section under the heading "Definitions," a description of the meanings attributed to certain terms for purposes of this section. These are provided to assist in the consistent application and interpretation of this section and are not intended to override definitions that may be established for other purposes, whether in law, regulation, or otherwise.
Complying With Relevant Requirements	Complying With Relevant Requirements (Ref: par. ,12)
.11 Subject to paragraph .15, the practitioner should comply with each requirement of this section that is relevant to the engagement being performed, unless, in the circumstances of the engagement, the requirement is not relevant because it is conditional, and the condition does not exist.
.12 When a practitioner undertakes a selected procedures engagement for the benefit of a government body or agency and agrees to follow specified government standards, guides, procedures, statutes, rules, and regulations, the practitioner should comply with those governmental requirements as well as this section. (Ref: par. .A12)	.A12 In certain selected procedures engagements, the practitioner also may be required to comply with other requirements in addition to this section. This section does not override law or regulation that governs the selected procedures engagement. In the event that such law or regulation differs from this section, a selected procedures engagement conducted only in accordance with law or regulation will not necessarily comply with this section.
Practitioner's Report Prescribed by Law or Regulation	Practitioner's Report Prescribed by Law or Regulation (Ref: par. .13)
.13 If the practitioner is required by law or regulation to use a specific layout, form, or wording of the practitioner's report and the prescribed form of report is not acceptable or would cause a practitioner to make a statement that the practitioner has no basis to make, the practitioner should reword the prescribed form of report or attach an appropriately worded separate practitioner's report. (Ref: par. .A13)	.A13 Some report forms can be made acceptable by inserting additional wording to include the elements required by this section. Some report forms required by law or regulation can be made acceptable only by complete revision because the prescribed language of the practitioner's report calls for statements by the practitioner that are not consistent with the practitioner's function or responsibility, for example, a report form that requests the practitioner to "certify" the subject matter.
Defining Professional Requirements in This Section

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
.14 This section uses the following two categories of professional requirements, identified by specific terms, to describe the degree of responsibility it imposes on practitioners: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Unconditional requirements. The practitioner must comply with an unconditional requirement in all cases in which such requirement is relevant. This section uses the word must to indicate an unconditional requirement. • Presumptively mandatory requirements. The practitioner must comply with a presumptively mandatory requirement in all cases in which such a requirement is relevant, except in rare circumstances discussed in paragraph .15. This section uses the word should to indicate a presumptively mandatory requirement.
Departure From a Relevant Requirement	Departure From a Relevant Requirement (Ref: par. .15)
.15 In rare circumstances, the practitioner may judge it necessary to depart from a relevant presumptively mandatory requirement. In such circumstances, the practitioner should perform alternative procedures to achieve the intent of that requirement. The need for the practitioner to depart from a relevant, presumptively mandatory requirement is expected to arise only when the requirement is for a specific procedure to be performed and, in the specific circumstances of the engagement, that procedure would be ineffective in achieving the intent of the requirement. (Ref: par. .A14)	.A14 Paragraph .63 prescribes documentation requirements when the circumstances described in paragraph .15 occur.
Interpretive Publications	Interpretive Publications (Ref: par. .16)
.16 The practitioner should consider applicable interpretive publications in planning and performing the selected procedures engagement. (Ref: par. .A15)	.A15 Interpretive publications are not standards. Interpretive publications are recommendations on the application of this section in specific circumstances, including engagements for entities in specialized industries. An interpretive publication is issued under the authority of the relevant senior technical committee only after all members of the committee have been provided an opportunity to consider and comment on whether the proposed interpretive publication is consistent with this section.

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
Other Selected Procedures Publications .17 In applying the guidance included in an other selected procedures publication, the accountant should, exercising professional judgment, assess the relevance and appropriateness of such guidance to the circumstances of the engagement. (Ref: par. .A16–.A18)	Other Selected Procedures Publications (Ref: par. .17) .A16 Other selected procedures publications have no authoritative status; however, they may help the accountant understand and apply this section. The accountant is not expected to be aware of the full body of other selected procedures publications. .A17 Although the accountant determines the relevance of these publications in accordance with paragraph .17, the accountant may presume that other selected procedures publications published by the AICPA that have been reviewed by the AICPA Audit and Attest Standards staff are appropriate. .A18 When determining whether an other selected procedures publication that has not been reviewed by the AICPA Audit and Attest Standards staff is appropriate to the circumstances of the engagement, the accountant may wish to consider the degree to which the publication is recognized as being helpful in understanding and applying this section and the degree to which the issuer or author is recognized as an authority in matters addressing selected procedures engagements. Other selected procedures publications that have not been reviewed by the AICPA Audit and Attest Standards staff that contradict an other selected procedures publication that has been reviewed by the AICPA Audit and Attest Standards staff is inappropriate.
Relationship of this Section to Quality Control Standards .18 Quality control systems, policies, and procedures are the responsibility of the firm in conducting its attestation practice. Under QC section 10, A Firm's System of Quality Control, the firm has an obligation to establish and maintain a system of quality control to provide it with reasonable assurance that² (Ref: par. .A19–.A21) a. the firm and its personnel comply with professional standards and applicable legal and regulatory requirements and	Relationship of this Section to Quality Control Standards (Ref: par. .18) .A19 The nature and extent of a firm's quality control policies and procedures depend on factors such as its size, the degree of operating autonomy allowed its personnel and its practice offices, the nature of its practice, its organization, and appropriate cost-benefit considerations.

b. practitioners' reports issued by the firm are appropriate in the circumstances. ² Paragraph .12 of QC section 10, A Firm's System of Quality Control.	.A20 Within the context of the firm's system of quality control, engagement teams have a responsibility to implement quality control procedures that are applicable to the selected procedures engagement and provide the firm with relevant information to enable the functioning of that part of the firm's quality control relating to independence. .A21 Engagement teams are entitled to rely on the firm's system of quality control, unless the engagement partner determines that it is inappropriate to do so based on information provided by the firm or other parties.
.19 This section relates to the conduct of individual selected procedures engagements; quality control standards relate to the conduct of a firm's attestation practice as a whole. Thus, this section and quality control standards are related, and the quality control policies and procedures that a firm adopts may affect both the conduct of individual selected procedures engagements and the conduct of a firm's attestation practice as a whole. However, deficiencies in or instances of noncompliance with a firm's quality control policies and procedures do not, in and of themselves, indicate that a particular engagement was not performed in accordance with the this section.

Preconditions for a Selected Procedures Engagement	Preconditions for a Selected Procedures Engagement (Ref: par. .23-.24b[ii])
.23 The practitioner must be independent when performing a selected procedures engagement in accordance with this section unless the	.A26 The "Independence Standards for Engagements Performed in Accordance With Statements on Standards for Attestation Engagements" interpretation (ET sec. 1.297) establishes special requirements for

practitioner is required by law or regulation to accept the engagement and report on the subject matter. (Ref: par. .A26)	independence for services provided under the attestation standards. In addition, the "Conceptual Framework Approach" interpretation (ET sec. 1.210.010) discusses threats to independence not specifically detailed elsewhere, for example, when the practitioner has an interest in the subject matter.
.24 In order to establish that the preconditions for a selected procedures engagement are present, the practitioner should determine both of the following: a. That the practitioner does not take responsibility for the subject matter. b. The engagement exhibits all of the following characteristics: i. The subject matter is appropriate. (Ref: par. .A27–.A31)	Appropriateness of Subject Matter (Ref: par. .24b[i] and .28a(iv)) .A27 An element of the appropriateness of subject matter is the existence of a reasonable basis for measuring or evaluating the subject matter. What constitutes a reasonable basis will depend on the nature of the subject matter and other engagement circumstances. .A28 An appropriate subject matter a. is identifiable and capable of consistent measurement or evaluation against the criteria and b. can be subjected to procedures for obtaining sufficient appropriate evidence to support findings. .A29 Different subject matters have different characteristics, including the degree to which information about them is qualitative versus quantitative, objective versus subjective, historical versus prospective, and relates to a point in time or covers a period. Such characteristics affect the following: a. Precision with which the subject matter can be measured or evaluated against criteria

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
ii. If applicable, the criteria to be applied in the preparation and evaluation of the subject matter are suitable and will be available to the intended users. (Ref: par. .A32–.A42)	b. The persuasiveness of available evidence .A30 Identifying such characteristics and considering their effects assists the practitioner when assessing the appropriateness of the subject matter and also in determining the content of the practitioner's report. .A31 In some cases, the selected procedures engagement may relate to only one part of a broader subject matter. For example, the practitioner may be engaged to perform selected procedures on one aspect of an entity's contribution to sustainable development, such as the programs run by the entity that have positive environmental outcomes, and may be aware that the practitioner has not been engaged to perform selected procedures on more significant programs with less favorable outcomes. In such cases, in determining whether the engagement exhibits the characteristic of having an appropriate subject matter, it may be appropriate for the practitioner to consider whether information about the aspect that the practitioner is asked to perform selected procedures on is likely to meet the information needs of intended users. Suitable and Available Criteria (Ref: par. .24b(ii)) .A32 Suitable criteria exhibit all of the following characteristics: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Relevance. Criteria are relevant to the subject matter. • Objectivity. Criteria are free from bias. • Measurability. Criteria permit reasonably consistent measurements, qualitative or quantitative, of subject matter. • Completeness. Criteria are complete when subject matter prepared in accordance with them does not omit relevant factors that could reasonably be expected to affect decisions of the intended users made on the basis of that subject matter.

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
	The relative importance of each characteristic to a particular engagement is a matter of professional judgment. .A33 Criteria can be developed in a variety of ways, for example, they may be <ul style="list-style-type: none">• embodied in laws or regulations.• issued by authorized or recognized bodies of experts that follow a transparent due process.• developed collectively by a group that does not follow a transparent due process.• published in scholarly journals or books.• developed for sale on a proprietary basis.• specifically designed for the purpose of measuring, evaluating, or disclosing the subject matter in the particular circumstances of the engagement. How criteria are developed may affect the work that the practitioner carries out to assess their suitability. .A34 Criteria that are established or developed by groups composed of experts that follow due process procedures, including exposure of the proposed criteria for public comment, are ordinarily considered suitable. Criteria promulgated by a body designated by the Council of the AICPA under the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct are, by definition, considered to be suitable.

	.A35 In some cases, laws or regulations prescribe the criteria to be used for the engagement. In the absence of indications to the contrary, such criteria are presumed to be suitable. .A36 Criteria may be established or developed by the engaging party, industry associations, or other groups that do not follow due process procedures or do not as clearly represent the public interest. The practitioner's determination of whether such criteria are suitable is based on the characteristics described in paragraph .A29. .A37 Regardless of who establishes or develops the criteria, the engaging party is responsible for selecting the criteria and for determining that such criteria are appropriate for its purposes. .A38 Some criteria may be suitable for only a limited number of parties who either participated in their establishment or can be presumed to have an adequate understanding of the criteria. For example, criteria set forth in a lease agreement for override payments may be suitable only for reporting to the parties to the agreement because of the likelihood that such criteria would be misunderstood or misinterpreted by parties other than those who have specifically agreed to the criteria. Such criteria can be agreed upon directly by the parties or through a designated representative. .A39 Even when established criteria exist for a subject matter, specific users may agree to other criteria for their specific purposes. For example, various frameworks can be used as established criteria for evaluating the effectiveness of internal control. Specific users may, however, develop a more detailed set of criteria that meet their specific information needs. .A40 If criteria are specifically designed for the purpose of measuring, evaluating, or disclosing the subject matter in the particular circumstances of the engagement, they are not suitable if they result in subject matter or a practitioner's report that is misleading to the intended users. It is desirable for the intended users or the engaging party to acknowledge that specifically

The absence of such an acknowledgement may affect what is to be done to assess the suitability of the criteria and the information provided about the criteria in the report. .A41 Criteria need to be available to the intended users to allow them to understand how the subject matter has been measured or evaluated. Criteria are made available to the intended users in one or more of the following ways: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. Publicly b. Through inclusion in a clear manner in the presentation of the subject matter c. Through inclusion in a clear manner in the practitioner's report d. By general understanding, for example, the criterion for measuring time in hours and minutes e. Therefore, the nature of that relationship may be a relevant consideration when determining whether or not to accept the engagement.

The practitioner's findings are to be contained in a written practitioner's report.	.A44 The quantity or quality of available evidence is affected by both of the following: a. The characteristics of the subject matter, for example, less objective evidence might be expected when the subject matter is future-oriented, rather than historical b. Other circumstances, such as when evidence that could reasonably be expected to exist is not available, for example, because of the timing of the practitioner's appointment, an entity's document retention policy, inadequate information systems, or a restriction imposed by the entity.
.25 If the preconditions in paragraphs .21–.22 are not present, the practitioner should discuss the matter with the engaging party to attempt to resolve the issue.
.26 The practitioner should accept a selected procedures engagement only when the practitioner a. has no reason to believe that relevant ethical requirements, including independence, will not be satisfied; b. is satisfied that those persons who are to perform the engagement collectively have the appropriate competence and capabilities (see also paragraph .29); c. has determined that the engagement to be performed meets all the preconditions for a selected procedures engagement (see also paragraphs .21–.22); and d. has reached a common understanding with the engaging party of the terms of the engagement, including the practitioner's reporting responsibilities.

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
.27 If it is discovered after the engagement has been accepted that one or more of the preconditions for a selected procedures engagement is not present, the practitioner should discuss the matter with the appropriate party(ies) and should determine <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. whether the matter can be resolved; b. whether it is appropriate to continue with the engagement; and c. if the matter cannot be resolved but it is still appropriate to continue with the engagement, whether, and if so how, to communicate the matter in the practitioner's report.
Agreeing on the Terms of the Engagement .28 The practitioner should agree upon the terms of the engagement with the engaging party. The terms of the engagement should be in sufficient detail in an engagement letter or other suitable form of written agreement and should include the following: (Ref: par. .A45) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. Identification of <ul style="list-style-type: none"> i. the engaging party; ii. the intended purpose of the engagement as determined by the engaging party; (Ref: par.A46) iii. the subject matter; iv. the criteria to be used, if applicable; (Ref: par. .A40) v. The form and content of the written agreement or contract will vary with the engagement circumstances. .A46 The intended purpose of the engagement is determined by the engaging party and is the use for which the practitioner's report is intended. For example, the intended purpose may be stated as "to assist users of this report in assessing whether [the subject matter] is [performed, presented] in accordance with [the criteria to be used]." .A47 There may be circumstances in which no party is responsible for the subject matter of the engagement. For example, the practitioner may be engaged to perform selected procedures with respect to a benchmarking project in which multiple entities may be responsible for certain aspects of the project or the subject matter may be publicly available such as that appears on the internet. For example, if the practitioner is engaged to benchmark the prices of ten products at three different stores on a certain date, each of the stores may be responsible for source of the subject matter

Unrestricted access to persons of whom the practitioner determines it necessary to make inquiries d. The responsibilities of the practitioner, including to apply procedures to the subject matter and issue a written practitioner's report that describes the procedures applied and the practitioner's findings (Ref: par. .A48)	and the price that is published on the shelf. Another example, if the practitioner is engaged to count the ballots of an election, while a party may be responsible for the voting process, such party is not responsible or the subject matter of the outcome of the election. .A48 When applicable, the practitioner's responsibilities may also include developing the procedures to be performed. However, the practitioner is not required to take responsibility for the sufficiency of those procedures.

The limitations of a selected procedures engagement, including a statement that the procedures performed may not address all of the items of interest to a user and may not meet the needs of all users.	.A49 The limitations of a selected procedures engagement may include circumstances where procedures and findings may not be appropriate for general use. For example, the engaging party may want to communicate certain information to their customer base and because of contractual agreements with their customers, the procedures and findings may not be understood by a general audience.

The practitioner may also obtain the entity’s written agreement that the entity and any specified parties will not distribute the practitioner’s selected procedures report to parties other than the specified parties. .A51 The requirement to include materiality limits in the terms of the engagement is applicable only when the practitioner is aware of, or establishes, such materiality limits at the onset of the engagement. For example, a materiality limit may be established that exceptions will not be reported for differences less than $1,000 that are due to rounding. Materiality limits may be obtained from, or agreed upon by, the engaging party after agreement on the terms of the engagement.
.29 The engagement letter or other suitable form of written agreement should be addressed to the engaging party and should be signed by a. The practitioner or the practitioner’s firm and b. The engaging party
Acceptance of a Change in the Terms of the Engagement	Acceptance of a Change in the Terms of the Engagement (Ref: par. .30)
.30 The practitioner should not agree to a change in the terms of the engagement when no reasonable justification for doing so exists. If a change in the terms of the engagement is made, the practitioner should not disregard evidence that was obtained prior to the change. (Ref: par. .A52-.A53)	.A52 A change in circumstances that affects the requirements of the engaging party, or a misunderstanding concerning the nature of the engagement originally requested, may be considered reasonable justification for requesting a change in the engagement, for example, from a selected procedures engagement to a consulting engagement. A change may not be considered reasonable if it appears that the change relates to information that is incorrect, incomplete, or otherwise unsatisfactory. .A53 If the practitioner and the engaging party are unable to agree to a change in the terms of the engagement and the practitioner is not permitted to continue the original engagement, the practitioner may withdraw from the engagement when possible under applicable laws and regulations.
Professional Skepticism and Professional Judgment	Professional Skepticism and Professional Judgment

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
Professional Skepticism .31 The practitioner should plan and perform a selected procedures engagement with professional skepticism. (Ref: par. .A54–.A56)	Professional Skepticism (Ref: par. .31) .A54 Professional skepticism includes being alert to matters such as the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Evidence that contradicts other evidence obtained • Information that brings into question the reliability of documents and responses to inquiries to be used as evidence • Circumstances that may indicate fraud • Circumstances that suggest the need for procedures in addition to those required this section .A55 Professional skepticism is necessary to the critical assessment of evidence. This includes questioning contradictory evidence and the reliability of documents and responses to inquiries and other information obtained from the appropriate party. It also includes consideration of the sufficiency and appropriateness of evidence obtained in light of the circumstances. .A56 The practitioner neither assumes that the appropriate party is dishonest nor assumes unquestioned honesty. The practitioner cannot be expected to disregard past experience of the honesty and integrity of those who provide evidence. Nevertheless, a belief that those who provide evidence are honest and have integrity does not relieve the practitioner of the need to maintain professional skepticism or allow the practitioner to be satisfied with less than sufficient appropriate evidence for the service being provided.
.32 Unless the practitioner has reason to believe the contrary, the practitioner may accept records and documents as genuine. If conditions identified during the selected procedures engagement cause the practitioner to believe that a document may not be authentic or that terms in a document have been modified but not disclosed to the practitioner, the practitioner should investigate further.

Professional Judgment .33 The practitioner should exercise professional judgment in planning and performing a selected procedures engagement. (Ref: par. .A57-.A61)	Professional Judgment (Ref: par. .33) .A57 Professional judgment is essential to the proper conduct of a selected procedures engagement. This is because interpretation of relevant ethical requirements and this section and the informed decisions required throughout the engagement cannot be made without the application of relevant knowledge and experience to the facts and circumstances. .A58 The distinguishing feature of professional judgment expected of a practitioner is that such judgment is exercised based on competencies necessary to achieve reasonable judgments developed by the practitioner through relevant training, knowledge, and experience. .A59 The exercise of professional judgment in any particular case is based on the facts and circumstances that are known by the practitioner. Consultation on difficult or contentious matters during the course of the engagement, both within the engagement team and between the engagement team and others at the appropriate level within or outside the firm, assist the practitioner in making informed and reasonable judgments. .A60 Professional judgment can be evaluated based on whether the judgment reached reflects a competent application of this section and measurement or evaluation principles and is appropriate in light of, and consistent with, the facts and circumstances that were known to the practitioner up to the date of the practitioner's report. .A61 The requirement to exercise professional judgment applies throughout the engagement.
Procedures to be Performed .34 The practitioner should perform selected procedures that are specific as to their nature, timing, and extent. (Ref: par. A51 and .A62-.A66)	Procedures to be Performed (Ref: par. .34-.35) .A62 Mere reading of specified information about the subject matter does not constitute a procedure sufficient to permit a practitioner to report on the results of selected procedures. .A63 Examples of appropriate procedures include the following:

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Execution of a sampling application in accordance with relevant parameters • Inspection of specified documents evidencing certain types of transactions or detailed attributes thereof • Confirmation of specific information with third parties • Comparison of documents, schedules, or analyses with certain specified attributes • Performance of procedures on work performed by others • Performance of mathematical computations .A64 For purposes of reporting, examples of inappropriate procedures include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Mere reading of the work performed by others solely to describe their findings • Evaluating the competency or objectivity of another party • Obtaining an understanding about a particular subject • Interpreting documents outside the scope of the practitioner’s professional expertise .A65 If the practitioner is selecting a sample, the procedures may state the size of the sample and how the selection was made, as this contributes to the specificity of the description of procedures performed (for example, 50 items starting at the eighth item and selecting every fifteenth item thereafter

.35 The practitioner should utilize professional judgment in making a determination as to whether the descriptions of the selected procedures are sufficiently precise and clear. The practitioner should not perform procedures that are open to varying interpretations or that use vague or ambiguous language. Terms of uncertain meaning (such as general review, limited review, check, or test) should not be used in describing the procedures. (Ref: par. .A67)	or invoices issued from May 1 to July 31, 20XX). .A66 Examples of other information the practitioner may include in the procedures are the date the procedure was performed and the sources of information used in performing the procedure. .A67 To avoid vague or ambiguous language, the procedures to be performed are characterized by the action to be taken at a level of specificity sufficient for a reader to understand the nature and extent of the procedures performed. Examples of acceptable descriptions of actions are the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Inspect • Compare • Agree • Trace • Inquire • Recalculate • Observe • Mathematically check Conversely, the following descriptions of actions (unless defined to indicate the nature, timing, and extent of the procedures associated with these actions) generally are not acceptable because they are not sufficiently precise or may have an uncertain meaning: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Note • Review • Evaluate • Analyze • Interpret • Verify

Using the Work of an Other Practitioner	Using the Work of an Other Practitioner (Ref: par. .37)
.37 When the practitioner expects to use the work of an other practitioner, the practitioner should (Ref: par. .A68–.A69) a. obtain an understanding of whether the other practitioner understands and will comply with the ethical requirements that are relevant to the engagement and, in particular, is independent. b. obtain an understanding of the other practitioner's professional competence. c. communicate clearly with the other practitioner about the scope and timing of the other practitioner's work and findings. d. if assuming responsibility for the work of the other practitioner, be involved in the work of the other practitioner. e. evaluate whether the other practitioner's work is adequate for the practitioner's purposes. f. determine whether to make reference to the other practitioner in the practitioner's report.	.A68 The practitioner is responsible for (a) the direction, supervision, and performance of the engagement in compliance with professional standards; applicable regulatory and legal requirements; and the firm's policies and procedures and (b) determining whether the practitioner's report that is issued is appropriate in the circumstances. The practitioner may, however, use the work of other practitioners to obtain sufficient appropriate evidence to express findings on the subject matter .A69 The engagement partner may decide to assume responsibility for the work of the other practitioner or to make reference to the other practitioner in the practitioner's report. Regardless of whether the engagement partner decides to assume responsibility or make reference, the practitioner is required to communicate clearly with the other practitioner and evaluate whether the other practitioner's work is adequate for the purposes of the engagement. The nature, timing, and extent of this involvement are affected by the practitioner's understanding of the other practitioner, such as previous experience with, or knowledge of, the other practitioner and the degree to which the engagement team and the other practitioner are subject to common quality control policies and procedures.

Using the Work of a Practitioner’s External Specialist	Using the Work of a Practitioner’s External Specialist (Ref: par. .38)
.38 If a practitioner’s external specialist is engaged to assist the practitioner in performing a selected procedures engagement, the practitioner’s report should describe the nature of the assistance provided by the external specialist. (Ref: par. .A70-.A72)	.A70 The practitioner may engage an external specialist to assist in designing the selected procedures to be performed. .A71 The practitioner’s education and experience enable the practitioner to be knowledgeable about business matters in general, but the practitioner is not expected to have the expertise of a person trained for or qualified to engage in the practice of another profession or occupation. In certain circumstances, it may be appropriate to involve a practitioner’s external specialist to assist the practitioner in the design or performance of one or more procedures. The following are examples of such circumstances. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An attorney providing assistance concerning the interpretation of legal terminology in laws, regulations, rules, contracts, or grants • A medical specialist providing assistance in understanding the characteristics of diagnosis codes documented in patient medical records • An environmental engineer providing assistance in interpreting environmental remedial action regulatory directives that may affect the selected procedures applied to an environmental liabilities account in a financial statement • A geologist providing assistance in distinguishing between the physical characteristics of a generic minerals group related to information to which the selected procedures are applied .A72 A practitioner may decide to apply procedures to the report or work product of an external specialist that does not constitute assistance by the external specialist to the practitioner in a selected procedures engagement. For example, the practitioner may make reference to information contained in a report of a practitioner’s external specialist in describing a procedure. However, it is inappropriate for the practitioner to merely read the external specialist’s report solely to describe or repeat the findings in the practitioner’s report or to take responsibility for all or a portion of any

Responsibility for the Work Performed by Internal Auditors	Responsibility for the Work Performed by Internal Auditors (Ref: par. .39)
.39 While the practitioner may utilize the work of internal auditors in the performance of the selected procedures, the selected procedures to be listed or referred to in the practitioner's report should be performed entirely by the engagement team or other practitioners. (Ref: par. .A73--.A75)	.A73 Internal auditors may prepare schedules and accumulate data or provide other information for the practitioner's use in performing the selected procedures. .A74 Internal auditors may perform and report separately on procedures that they have carried out. Such procedures may be similar to those that a practitioner may perform under this proposed standard. It is inappropriate for the practitioner to <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • merely read the internal auditors' report solely to describe or repeat their findings. • take responsibility for all or a portion of any procedures performed by internal auditors by reporting those findings as the practitioner's own. • report in any manner that implies that the practitioner is taking responsibility for the internal auditor's work. .A75 A practitioner may perform procedures on information documented in the working papers of internal auditors.
Obtaining an Acknowledgment of the Engaging Party's Awareness of the Procedures Performed	Obtaining an Acknowledgment of the Engaging Party's Awareness of the Procedures Performed (Ref: par. .40 and .44)
.40 Prior to the issuance of the selected procedures report, the practitioner should obtain a written acknowledgment from the engaging party regarding their awareness of the procedures performed. (Ref: par. .A76-.A79)	.A76 The engaging party's acknowledgment of its awareness of the procedures performed does not constitute the engaging party accepting responsibility for the sufficiency of the procedures. .A77 The practitioner's communication with the engaging party enables the engaging party, if not already aware, to be made aware of the specific procedures performed and affords the engaging party an opportunity to suggest additional procedures that the engaging party may feel are appropriate in order to meet the purpose of the engagement.

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
	.A78 In addition to the engaging party, the practitioner may also consider it appropriate to communicate with other parties regarding the procedures performed. .A79 The written acknowledgment of the procedures performed may be documented in the engagement letter, an amendment to the engagement letter, in a representation letter, or some other written communication.
Findings .41 The practitioner should present the results of applying selected procedures to subject matter in the form of findings.	Findings (Ref: par. .42-.43)
.42 The practitioner should report all findings from the application of the selected procedures or report that there were no findings from the application of the selected procedures. Any materiality limits should be described in the practitioner’s report. (Ref: par. .A80 and .A82)	.A80 An example of language in the practitioner’s report that describes a materiality limit is “For purposes of reporting the findings from these selected procedures, exceptions of $1,000 or less resulting solely from the rounding of amounts disclosed are not considered findings.”
.40 In reporting findings, the practitioner should (Ref: par. .A83) a. Not use vague or ambiguous language; (Ref: par. .A81) b. Not include terms of uncertain meaning (Ref: par. .A82) c. Not express an opinion or conclusion.	.A81 Because the selected procedures report is not required to be restricted as to use, the practitioner cannot ascertain the understanding of users of an unknown population. Therefore, to avoid vague or ambiguous language, the findings are described at a level of specificity sufficient for a user to understand the nature, timing, and extent of the procedures and findings. .A82 If, in the practitioner’s judgment, certain terms are potentially uncertain in meaning, the practitioner may consider whether a glossary is appropriate in the circumstances. .A83 When a procedure is written in sufficient detail, the finding may be very brief, as the practitioner does not need to repeat the procedure in describing the result. When there are no exceptions, common descriptions of results are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • No exceptions were noted. • No exceptions were [noted/found/identified] as a result of applying the procedure. It is acceptable to repeat part of the procedure in the finding, for example:

(Ref: par. .A86) .49 The practitioner's report on selected procedures should be in the form of procedures and findings. .50 The practitioner should consider whether the presentation of the procedures and related findings is misleading in the circumstances of the engagement. If, as a result of performing procedures, the practitioner determines that the description of the procedures performed or the corresponding findings are misleading in the circumstances of the engagement, the practitioner should discuss the matter with the engaging party and take appropriate action. (Ref: par. .A87)	.A86 This proposed standard does not require a standardized format for reporting on selected procedures engagements. Instead it identifies the required basic elements for a report on selected procedures. Reports on selected procedures are tailored to the specific engagement circumstances. The practitioner may use headings, separate paragraphs, paragraph numbers, typographical devices (for example, the bolding of text), and other mechanisms to enhance the clarity and readability of the selected procedures report. .A87 Appropriate actions the practitioner might consider in the circumstances described in paragraph .47 include <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. performing revised procedures; b. re-wording a procedure or a finding; or c. withdrawing from the engagement.

Alert That Restricts the Use of the Practitioner’s Selected Procedures Report .52 In the following circumstances, the practitioner’s selected procedures report should include an alert, in a separate paragraph, that restricts the use of the report (Ref: par. .A98-.A100) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. The practitioner determines that the criteria used to evaluate the subject matter are appropriate only for a limited number of parties who either participated in their establishment or can be presumed to have an adequate understanding of the criteria or b. The criteria used to evaluate the subject matter are available only to the specified parties. .53 The alert should <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. state that the practitioner’s report is intended solely for the information and use of the specified parties. b. identify the specified parties for whom use is intended, and (Ref: par. .A101) c. state that the report is not intended to be, and should not be, used by anyone other than the specified parties. (Ref: par. .A102-.A104) 	Alert That Restricts the Use of the Practitioner’s Selected Procedures Report (Ref: par. .52) .A98 A practitioner's report for which the conditions in paragraph .26 do not apply need not include an alert that restricts its use. However, nothing precludes a practitioner from including such an alert in any practitioner's report or other practitioner's written communication. .A99 A practitioner's report that is required by paragraph .52 to include an alert that restricts the use of the report may be included in a document that also contains a practitioner's report that is for general use. In such circumstances, the use of the general use report is not affected. .A100 A practitioner may also issue a single combined practitioner's report that includes (a) a practitioner's report that is required by paragraph .52 to include an alert that restricts its use, and (b) a report that is for general use. If these two types of reports are clearly differentiated within the combined report, such as through the use of appropriate headings, the alert that restricts the use of the report may be limited to the report required by paragraph .52 to include such an alert. In such circumstances, the use of the general use report is not affected. .A101 The practitioner may identify the specified parties by naming them, referring to a list of those parties, or identifying the class of parties, for example, "all customers of XYZ Company during some or all of the period January 1, 20XX to December 31, 20XX." The method of identifying the specified parties is determined by the practitioner. .A102 In some cases, the criteria used to measure or evaluate the subject matter may be designed for a specific purpose. For example, a regulator may require certain entities to use particular criteria designed for regulatory purposes. To avoid misunderstandings, the practitioner alerts users of the practitioner's report to this fact and, therefore, that the report is intended solely for the information and use of the specified parties.

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
.54 When the engagement is also performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards, the alert language required by paragraph .53 should not be used. Instead, the alert required by paragraph .53 should: a. Describe the purpose of the report and b. State that the report is not suitable for any other purpose	.A103 The alert that restricts the use of the practitioner's report is designed to avoid misunderstandings related to the use of the report, particularly if the report is taken out of the context in which the report is intended to be used. A practitioner may consider informing the engaging party or other specified parties that the report is not intended for distribution to parties other than those specified in the report. The practitioner may, in connection with establishing the terms of the engagement, reach an understanding with the engaging party, that the intended use of the report will be restricted and may obtain the engaging party's agreement that the engaging party and specified parties will not distribute such report to parties other than those identified therein. A practitioner is not responsible for controlling, and cannot control, distribution of the report after its release. .A104 In some cases, a restricted-use practitioner's report filed with regulatory agencies is required by law or regulation to be made available to the public as a matter of public record. Also, a regulatory agency, as part of its oversight responsibility for an entity, may require access to a restricted-use report in which it is not named as a specified party.
Knowledge of Matters Outside Selected Procedures .55 Although the practitioner need not perform procedures beyond the selected procedures, if in connection with the application, and through the completion, of the selected procedures engagement, matters come to the practitioner's attention by other means that significantly contradict the subject matter referred to in the practitioner's report, the practitioner should discuss the matter with the engaging party and determine whether the practitioner's report should be revised to disclose the matter. (Ref: par. .A105-.A106)	Knowledge of Matters Outside Selected Procedures (Ref: par. .55) .A105 When the practitioner applies selected procedures to an element, account, or item of a financial statement and has performed an audit or review of the entity's related financial statements, and the practitioner's audit or review report on such financial statements includes a departure from the standard report, the practitioner may include a reference to the audit or review report and the departure from the standard report in the practitioner's report on selected procedures. .A106 The practitioner is not required to perform any procedures after the date of the practitioner's selected procedures report.
Communication Responsibilities .56 The practitioner should communicate to the engaging party known and suspected fraud and noncompliance with laws and regulations discovered during the selected procedures engagement.
Consideration of Subsequent Events	Consideration of Subsequent Events (Ref: par. .57)

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
.57 When relevant to the engagement, the practitioner should consider the effect on the underlying subject matter and on the practitioner's report of events up to the date of the report, and should respond appropriately to facts that become known to the practitioner after the date that, had they been known to the practitioner at that date, may have caused the practitioner to amend the report. The extent of consideration of subsequent events depends on the potential for such events to affect the underlying subject matter and to affect the appropriateness of the practitioner's conclusion. However, the practitioner has no responsibility to perform any procedures regarding the underlying subject matter after the date of the report. (Ref: par. .A107)	.A107 As noted in paragraph X,57, the practitioner has no responsibility to perform any procedures regarding the underlying subject matter after the date of the practitioner's report. However, if, after the date of the report, a fact becomes known to the practitioner that, had it been known to the practitioner at the date of the report, may have caused the practitioner to amend the report, the practitioner may need to discuss the matter with the appropriate party(ies) or take other action as appropriate in the circumstances.
Documentation .58 The practitioner should prepare engagement documentation on a timely basis that is sufficient to determine (Ref: par. .A108) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. the nature, timing, and extent of the procedures performed to comply with this proposed standard and applicable legal and regulatory requirements, including <ul style="list-style-type: none"> i. the identifying characteristics of the specific items or matters tested; ii. who performed the engagement work and the date such work was completed; iii. who reviewed the engagement work performed and the date and extent of such review. b. the results of the procedures performed and the evidence obtained. .59 The engagement documentation should include the written acknowledgement from the engaging party regarding their awareness of the procedures performed, as required by paragraph .40.	Documentation (Ref: par. .58 and .60) .A108 Documentation prepared at the time work is performed or shortly thereafter is likely to be more accurate than documentation prepared at a much later time.
.60 The practitioner should assemble the engagement documentation in an engagement file and complete the administrative process of	.A109 The completion of the assembly of the final engagement file is an administrative process that does not involve the performance of new procedures or the drawing of new conclusions. Changes may, however, be

(Ref: par. .A109)	made to the documentation during the final assembly process if they are administrative in nature. Examples of such changes include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Deleting or discarding superseded documentation • Sorting, collating, and cross-referencing working papers • Signing off on completion checklists relating to the file assembly process • Documenting evidence that the practitioner has obtained, discussed, and agreed with the relevant members of the engagement team before the date of the practitioner's report • Adding information received after the date of the report, for example, an original confirmation that was previously faxed
.61 After the documentation completion date, the practitioner should not delete or discard documentation of any nature before the end of its retention period.
.62 If the practitioner finds it necessary to amend existing engagement documentation or add new engagement documentation after the documentation completion date, the practitioner should, regardless of the nature of the amendments or additions, document a. the specific reasons for making the amendments or additions and b. when, and by whom, they were made and reviewed.
.63 Engagement documentation is the property of the practitioner, and some jurisdictions recognize this right of ownership in their statutes. The practitioner should adopt reasonable procedures to retain engagement documentation for a period of time sufficient to meet the needs of the practitioner and to satisfy any applicable legal or regulatory requirements for records retention.

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
.64 Because engagement documentation often contains confidential information, the practitioner should adopt reasonable procedures to maintain the confidentiality of that information.
.65 The practitioner also should adopt reasonable procedures to prevent unauthorized access to engagement documentation.
.66 If, in rare circumstances, the practitioner judges it necessary to depart from a relevant, presumptively mandatory requirement, the practitioner should document the justification for the departure and how the alternative procedures performed in the circumstances were sufficient to achieve the intent of that requirement. (See paragraph .15.)
Engagement Quality Control Review	Engagement Quality Control Review (Ref: par. .67)
.67 For those engagements, if any, for which the firm has determined that an engagement quality control review is required (Ref: par. .A110) a. the engagement partner should take responsibility for discussing with the engagement quality control reviewer significant findings or issues arising during the engagement, including those identified during the engagement quality control review, and not release the practitioner's report until completion of the engagement quality control review and b. the engagement quality control reviewer should perform an objective evaluation of the significant judgments made by the engagement team and the conclusions reached in formulating the report. This evaluation should include the following: i. Discussion of significant findings or issues with the engagement partner ii. Reading the written subject matter and the proposed report	.A110 Other matters that may be considered in an engagement quality control review include the following: a. The engagement team's evaluation of the firm's independence in relation to the engagement b. Whether appropriate consultation has taken place on matters involving differences of opinion or other difficult or contentious matters and the conclusions arising from those consultations c. Whether engagement documentation selected for review reflects the work performed in relation to the significant judgments and supports the conclusions reached

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
iii. Reading selected engagement documentation relating to the significant judgments the engagement team made and the related conclusions it reached iv. Evaluation of the conclusions reached in formulating the report and consideration of whether the proposed report is appropriate
